PETER MOOSBRUGGER

PETER THOMAS DESIGNS OWNER

“My goal is to get uncomfortable every day. It is the best way I know to increase my comfort zone.”

Creativity, competition and entrepreneurship are themes that have been woven throughout Peter Moosbrugger's life. In high school he competed in judo, in college he ran track, and after graduation competed in the bobsled in Europe. He still competes in indoor rowing and Masters track/field. He's always loved to sketch, design, dream and create and most of his life he has been in business for himself. It wasn't until 12 years ago that these themes all came together in Peter Thomas Designs.

Tell us about your passion for building custom furniture. I am passionate about creating furniture that makes a statement about the person it is designed for. Our pieces are conversation starters and visually dramatic.

What sets you apart in the custom furniture industry? Business is about competition. My competitive spirit plays out in that our goal is to make every piece absolutely perfect. Every day we reinvent the wheel, so to speak, so it is not an easy road to success.

What do you consider to be the keys of your success? In this line of work you have to be tenacious, realizing that there is always a solution to a challenge...we just have to find it! Another key is having the right people. I love working with my daughter and son-in-law and an amazing team of talented craftsmen. Together, we build incredible furniture which makes a positive difference in peoples lives.
